ABSTRACT

During this reporting period the Washington State Advisory Council on Libraries (WSACL) continued to set the course for library planning in Washington. The major portion of activities of the fiscal year have been linked with the State legislature's Local Government Committee in the delivery of reports concerning the WSACL statewide study of library services and in responding to the committee's proposal to prepare legislation for full State funding of a statewide system of libraries. The resulting draft appeared as State of Washington House Bill 170 and its companion, Senate Bill 2166. WSACL has also provided the impetus through which three areas of the State have begun regular meetings to organize the planning process for interlibrary cooperation. Section 1 of this report gives more detail on the activities of fiscal 1973--their relation to the goals, objectives, and activities previously identified in the long range program, and outlines of new or revised activities for fiscal 1974. The second section updates the long range plan, while section 3 and the appendixes include the full text of the various resolutions, bills, and recommendations. (Author/SL)

INTRODUCTION

During this reporting period the Washington State Advisory Council on Libraries (WSACL) continued to set the course for library planning in Washington. (See Long-Range Program, Section I, History of Library Development.) The major portion of activities of the fiscal year have been linked with the state legislature's Local Government Committee:

(1) delivery of reports concerning the WSACL statewide study of library services and,

(2) responding to the Committee's October 13 proposal to prepare legislation for full state funding of a statewide system of libraries.

Several drafts of the proposed legislation were written and examined by the WSACL, the State Library Commission and the members of the Washington Library Association (WLA). The resulting final draft was submitted by the Local Government Committee to the Legislative Council. The Council approved the draft and it was submitted as House Bill 170 and its companion, Senate Bill 2166 (See Appendices).

The bills were referred by the legislature to their respective Ways and Means Committees, but were not brought out for floor consideration during the January-May session. However, a floor resolution called for the Senate Ways and Means Committee to conduct a study of alternative funding for a statewide system of libraries and to report the results of the study to the 1974 session of the legislature. (See Appendices)

During the period of January through June, 1973 the Advisory Council held Hearings in five geographical areas of Washington to discuss the concept of the legislation with librarians, city and county government officials and citizens of the state and to garner recommendations concerning the implementation of the concepts contained in the bill. In addition, individual members of the Council met with many staff associations of libraries to discuss the bill in detail.

In May the WSACL reported to the Washington Library Association membership during the general business meeting. The need for interlibrary planning was emphasized at that time. There are now three areas of the state where meetings are being held on a regular basis to organize the planning process and to discuss cooperative measures which might benefit their particular planning area.

The following section reports in more detail the activites of fiscal 1973; their relationship to the Goals, Objectives and Activities previously identified in the Long-Range Program; and outlines new or revised activities for Fiscal 1974 required to meet the goals identified in the Long-Range Program.

The second section updates the Long-Range Plan Section III and the Appendices include the full text of the various resolutions, bills, and recommendations.

SECTION 1

BASIC LIBRARY FUNDING

LONG-RANGE PROGRAM	FISCAL 1973 and FISCAL 1974
Statement of the problem (page 16)	No change
Objective: "To modify the sources and processes of funding of the publicly-supported libraries in order to provide responsive and sufficient fiscal support."	No change
	Action to meet objective:
	In October 1973 the Legislature's Local Government Committee proposed writing legislation for full state funding of a state-wide system of libraries to WSACL and State Library Commission. Seven criteria which such funding would accomplish were listed: a. Free property tax for fire protection. b. Provide library service to those citizens without direct service. c. Improve information resources in the state. d. Assure statewide access to resources. e. Encourage development of an administrative structure which allows maximum economy and interrelationship. f. Enhance network development.
	-Final draft approved and submitted by the Local Government Committee to the Legislative Council. Council approved draft and it was submitted as House Bill 170 and Senate Bill 2166, December 1972. (See Appendix A)
	-Bills referred to respective Ways & Means Committees. Not brought to floor during January Session.
	-Senate floor resolution called for Ways and Means Committee to: "Conduct a study for alternative funding for a statewide-system of libraries that will provide for continued assured support...the results of said study shall be reported to the 1974 Sessions of the Legislature." (See Appendix B)

LONG-RANGE PROGRAM

FISCAL 1973 and FISCAL 1974

-As a relief measure the Legislature appropriated $1.5 million to "Local library districts for aid in maintaining present levels of library service," and $863,000 "for the potential loss of federal funds in the State Library development and reader services programs."

Projected Activities:

1. To monitor the consequences of the California Supreme Court Serrano decision, as well as similar cases and decisions in other states, as they affect the use of local property taxes for funding school and possibly public library programs.

2. To work with the Department of Revenue and other state agencies and groups in developing alternative state taxing structures to assure the specific inclusion of public library and school funding.

3. To work with the Council on Higher Education's Office of Interinstitutional Business Studies in 1973 as it revises the model budget formula for academic libraries.

Action Accomplished:

1. Continuing

2. Continuing

3. The chairman of WSACL, Dr. Gerald Brong, has been working with the revision of the Model Budget Formula.

Future Activities:

4. To support the work of the Senate Ways & Means Committee as necessary to accomplish the study of alternative funding for a statewide system of libraries.

5. To evaluate and act upon the results of Activity 4 with the library community, professional associations, WSACL and State Library Commission.

MATERIALS RESOURCES

LONG-RANGE PROGRAM	FISCAL 1973 and FISCAL 1974
Statement of the problem (page 17)	No change
Objective: "To develop library material resources (books, periodicals, and non-print) to meet the recommended level by the end of the decade.	No change
Projected Activities:	Action Accomplished:
1. To request of the 1973 Legislature that the state assume continuous funding of the purchase of current materials resources (books, periodicals, non-print) at the recommended rate, for all municipal and district libraries in the state, and also provide additional sums so that total statewide resources may reach the recommended level by the end of the decade.	1.a. A study of current budgets dedicated to library materials and the status of library collections compared to standards resulted in a recommended amount of fiscal support. A request for this fiscal support was presented to the Local Government Committee. b. The principle of state support for library materials collections was written into HB 170. (See Sec. 23, Subsection 11)
2. To request of the Legislature supplemental funding for community college learning resource centers.	2. To be accomplished
3. To request of the Legislature additional funding for the two university libraries, to be used for the acquisition of scientific literature by means of computerized approaches in their respective areas of specialization, and for the support of these facilities so that these services can be extended to potential users throughout the state.	3. To be accomplished
4. To work to achieve at the next legislative budget hearings a five to ten per cent increase in the allocation level as determined by the model budget analysis system for libraries--05 for the academic libraries.	4. To be accomplished

LONG-RANGE PROGRAM	FISCAL 1973 and FISCAL 1974
5. To examine the feasibility of designating specified libraries as Major State Resource Libraries to be specially funded.	5. The designation of Major State Resource Libraries was included in HB 170. (Sec. 23, Subsection 13) Committees in two major resource libraries are studying the issue.
	Future Activities:
	6. To study the implications of HB 170 relating to materials acquisition and develop draft regulations in anticipation of future acceptance of the statewide system of libraries concept.

SERVICES TO THE UNREACHED AND THE UNSERVED

LONG-RANGE PROGRAM	FISCAL 1973 and FISCAL 1974
Statement of the problem (pp. 19,20)	No change
Objective: Unreached "To develop library services that will reach out and meet the needs of citizens who are not library users because of physical, economic or social barriers."	No change
Projected Activities:	Action Accomplished:
1. The Council will continue its study to determine effective methods of accomplishing outreach services.	1.a. Council staff has begun compilation of a resume of the recommendations of the Equitable Services Task Force for distribution to Washington librarians. b. A Task Force of the WLA prepared and presented a slide-tape presentation at the WLA annual meeting which outlined the need for such services. A followup presentation is in preparation which will highlight effective methods of accomplishing outreach services. c. Three libraries are delivering books by mail to persons receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children, Old Age Assistance, and Disability Assistance. Resulting use indicates this is an effective service pattern.
2. The Council has recommended that state funds be sought from the 1973 Legislature to provide to individual libraries and library systems grants for outreach or extension services to those person not now adequately served....	2. A Radio Talking Book program, broadcast to the blind and physically handicapped who are unable to read or handle regular print formats was established in March 1973 with state funding received through the Department of Social and Health Services.
Objective: Unserved "To ensure that public library services are available to all citizens of Washington."	No change

5. The lack of qualitative standards for evaluation of library programs, as well as the desire to adapt national quantitative standards to the state level resulted in the appointment of an Advisory Council Committee on Criteria for Library Programs. Target date for completion of the committee's task is 1974, at which time its output will be used to evaluate current library services and plan for future development.	5. Committee met six times but was not able to resolve basic problems. It was disbanded with the intent of later establishment of a new committee.

To be accomplished
7. To analyze the role of the State Library in light of planned and potential developments.	7. This is one component of HB 170 (Sec. 25).

DESCRIPTIVE STATEMENTS ...

PUBLIC LIBRARIES

(revision page 31, Long-Range Program)

TYPES IN EXISTENCE:

Within the state of Washington in 1972 there were 62 municipal libraries, no county libraries, six rural county library districts, three intercounty rural library districts, and five regional libraries. In 1972, two more counties voted to tax themselves for public library service. One is joining with a regional library; the other is still studying its service needs.

AREAS WITHOUT PUBLIC LIBRARY SERVICE:

Fifty-five municipalities are without publicly-supported library service, although a few have small privately-operated units. The rural area of twelve counties, which together constitute 25.6% of the state land mass, are also not supporting public library services. Seven of the counties are located in eastern Washington; the remaining five are generally the least populous and geographically isolated counties in Western Washington. An example of the geographical difficulties is San Juan County, which is composed of the San Juan Islands in northern Puget Sound. Efforts to provide library service in these areas are considered in the previous GOALS AND OBJECTIVES section.

OTHER STATEWIDE RESOURCES ...

REGIONAL LIBRARY FOR THE BLIND AND PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED:

(Revision page 41, paragraph 4, Long-Range Program)

Additional cooperative activity with implications for the services to the blind and handicapped in the state are the arrangements between the State Library, the State Department of Social and Health Services, State Services for the Blind, the University of Washington Station KUOW-FM, and the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped to establish a Radio Talking Book Service. The service was begun in the Spring of 1973.

(5) Project the financial needs of the state-wide system of libraries for each fiscal biennium and recommend to the legislature a schedule for directing funds in support thereof;

(6) Coordinate the library resources, programs, and services of libraries in the state-wide system;

Such basic grant may not be utilized by any municipality which chooses not to become a full participant in the state-wide system of libraries to reduce local support of library service to a lower level than the maximum state per capita appropriation. Degree of participation within the state-wide system of libraries shall be the primary criterion upon which such fund allocation formula is based;

(13) Designate major resource centers from among existing libraries on the basis of criteria approved by the board and agreed to by the governing body of the library involved. The board may revoke the designation of a major resource center which ceases to meet the criteria for a major resource center or which fails to comply with obligations. Senate Resolution

WHEREAS, Libraries are an essential part of our state education system and provide an important information network across the state; and

WHEREAS, Eleven counties are presently without any library service and other areas do not have adequate service, and a state-wide system of libraries would provide library service for those citizens without direct service and improve information resources and present library service; and

WHEREAS, The proliferation of knowledge results in a doubling every few years of the knowledge available to people thus making it imperative that resources be shared in as efficient a manner as possible; and

WHEREAS, Every library established or maintained throughout the state should be free for the use of the residents of Washington in order to assure the greatest benefit to the greatest number; and

WHEREAS, It is increasingly evident that the property tax, regardless of where or how collected, is a poor basis of support for library service thereby necessitating funding by the state for a state-wide system of libraries;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, By the Senate, that the Standing Senate Ways and Means Committee conduct a study for alternative funding for a state-wide system of libraries that will provide for continued assured support;

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the results of said study shall be reported to the 1974 Session of the Legislature.

INTERLIBRARY LOAN CODE FOR LIBRARIES IN WASHINGTON STATE

Introduction

This code is a voluntary agreement adopted by _____ on _____ to govern interlibrary lending among libraries in the State of Washington, and is intended to promote a more liberalized interlibrary loan policy among the libraries adopting it than that of the ALA National Interlibrary Loan Code, 1968. It is based on the premise that lending among libraries for the use of an individual in the State of Washington is in the public interest and should be encouraged. However, liberal interlibrary borrowing should be no substitute for the development of adequate collections based on the needs of the service areas represented in libraries and library systems.

"Libraries"--The use of the word "libraries" in this case means libraries of all types: public, academic, special, school, learning resource centers, audio-visual centers, etc.

The Code

I. Definition

1. Interlibrary loans are transactions in which library materials are made available by one library to another; for the purposes of this code they also include the provision of copies as substitutes for loans of the original materials.

II. Purpose

1. Since it is increasingly evident that it is impossible for any one library to be self-sufficient, and in the belief that the furtherance of knowledge is in the general interest, interlibrary borrowing and lending are regarded as essential to library service.

III. Scope

1. Any library material needed may be requested on loan or in photocopy from another library. The lending library may decide in each case whether a particular request should or should not be filled, and whether the original or a copy should be sent.

"Any library material needed..."--This statement extends traditional interlibrary lending to all types of information/media; however, adequate protection exists for the lending library.

2. Each library may wish to prepare a statement of its interlibrary loan policies and procedures to further supplement the national loan policies and the Washington State code and may make this statement available to all other libraries in the State.

IV. Responsibility of lending libraries

1. Lending libraries will practice as liberal and unrestrictive a policy as is possible in interlibrary loans, with due consideration to the interests of their primary clientele.

V. Responsibility of borrowing libraries

1. The availability of interlibrary loans does not relieve any library of the responsibility of developing its own collection. Each library will provide the resources to meet the ordinary needs of all its users. No library should depend upon another to supply the normal needs of its clientele except under special agreement for such service.

> "responsibility of developing its own collection"--Each library should define this responsibility according to the needs of its community and of the clientele for which it is responsible.
> "special agreement"--Such agreements are entirely possible; however it should be recognized that their provisions may be outside the terms of this code. They could be supplemental to and needful of temporary or permanent arrangements, e.g., the loan of bulk materials for a specific purpose, or a regularly renewable contract between a public library and a school district.

2. Borrowing libraries will make every effort to exhaust their own resources and those of their immediate community before resorting to interlibrary loans.

3. Borrowing libraries should evaluate all requests to determine if they are appropriate for interlibrary loan.

4. Requests should be reviewed to determine collection requirements.

VI. Eligibility

1. Any patron normally considered to be part of the borrowing library's clientele should be eligible for interlibrary loan privileges if the request is judged to be legitimate by the borrowing library.

> "Any patron:--Under this statement requests to borrow material may be made for ALL users (including undergraduates in academic libraries) so long as it is understood that such requests may possibly be filled only by libraries within the State of Washington.

VII. Form or request

1. Materials requested must be described as completely and accurately as possible following accepted bibliographic practice.

   "accepted bibliographic practice"--Citations found in verification sources should be copied precisely and in full. Citations to books and other non-serial publications should include author's full name, complete title, edition, place of publication, publisher and date. Citations to periodicals and other serials should give the name of the periodical in full, the volume and date, author and title of the article wanted, and the inclusive pagination. Citations to non-print materials should include descriptive and source information sufficient to permit ready identification in standard audio-visual bibliographies.

2. All items requested shall be verified in standard bibliographic tools and sources of verification cited. When the item requested cannot be verified, the statement "cannot verify" shall be indicated, along with complete information as to the source of reference and to all bibliographic sources searched.

   "sources of verification"--It will be expected that each library own and use basic bibliographic tools in the verification of its interlibrary loan requests.

   "source of reference"--If standard tools do not serve to verify a requested item, the patron's source of reference becomes important. Effort should be made to discover it at the time the individual requests the loan; i.e., in what work was it found and on what page. This information should appear on the request when submitted to a lending library.

3. If the borrowing library does not provide enough information to identify the material, the lending library may return the request for additional information.

4. The name and status (position or other identifying information) of the individual for whom the material is being requested shall appear on the request form when relevant.

   "name and status"--It is sometimes important for libraries to have this information to set priorities for lending. The name may be omitted when confidentiality is important.

5. Special instructions such as acceptability of a substitute and the inclusion of the date beyond which the material cannot be used should appear on the request form when pertinent. Because of the ambiguity of the term, rush should not be used as a substitute for the exact date when material is needed.

6. All requests and shipments shall be conspicuously labeled "Interlibrary Loan."

VIII. Placement of requests

1. Requests should be routed through such established channels as may be agreed upon by libraries participating in this plan for interlibrary loan service. Special arrangements for lending of materials by designated resource libraries may be made within the context of this agreement.

> "channels"--Academic libraries normally channel requests through the Pacific Northwest Bibliographic Center or other libraries as seems appropriate. School libraries may channel requests through their local public library or send them directly to the Washington State Library after checking local resources. Special libraries may channel requests through the State Library, the Pacific Northwest Bibliographic Center or specialized resource libraries after checking local resources. Independent public libraries usually channel requests through the State Library. If public libraries are members of a regional system they channel requests through the regional library headquarters; the regional library will forward requests that it cannot fill to the State Library. The State Library will forward unfilled requests to the Pacific Northwest Bibliographic Center.

2. Every effort should be made to locate materials through available local, state, and regional union catalogs, book catalogs, and union lists.

3. Requests may be made by mail, transmitted by messenger service or teletype using the standard ALA form, ALA photoduplication form, or any mutually acceptable form. When mutually agreeable, telephone requests are acceptable.

4. Libraries may lend directly to an individual by mutual agreement between the borrowing and lending libraries.

IX. Conditions of loans

1. The lending library will indicate its loan period, which shall be calculated as the time the item is to be at the borrowing library, disregarding the time spent in transit.

2. The borrowing library will honor the loan period and any limitations on use stipulated by the lending library and will comply with any special instructions for packing and shipment; i.e., insure the package, avoid jiffy bags for large books, etc.

3. Unless specifically forbidden by the lending library, it is assumed that copying is permitted, provided that it is in accordance with copyright law and that no damage to the original volume will result.

4. Material on loan is subject to recall at any time and the borrowing library shall comply promptly.

5. Renewal requests shall be kept to a minimum. The renewal request shall be sent before the due date.

6. The borrowing library is responsible for returning loans promptly and in good condition, and in the case of loss or damage, must reimburse the lending library or provide for replacement as requested.

X. Notification and acknowledgment

1. The lending library shall notify the borrowing library promptly whether or not the material is being sent; if the material cannot be supplied, the lending library shall state the reason.

2. Except in the case of very valuable shipments, no acknowledgment of receipt is necessary. If there is undue delay in the receipt of a shipment, the borrowing library shall notify the lending library so that a search may be initiated.

XI. Expenses

1. The borrowing library should be prepared to assume any costs charged by the lending library. If unauthorized charges are more than nominal, the lending library will inform the requesting library and obtain authorization to proceed with the transaction. Borrowing libraries should attempt to anticipate charges and authorize them on the initial request.

2. In the interests of efficiency the lending library may agree to absorb nominal costs for postage, photocopying and/or insurance.

3. Libraries may make special contractual or other arrangements, including financial reimbursement or other adjustments, in recognition of costs incurred by libraries whose resources are used extensively under this agreement.

XII. Obligation to the code

1. Each library is responsible for maintaining the provisions of this code in good faith.

NOTE ON VIDEO MATERIALS

Purchase specifications for video materials which gives the purchaser permission to make additional copies has been developed by the Nonprint Purchase Specifications Committee of the Washington Association for Educational Communications and Technology. The permission is secured in the process of purchasing the materials. The method has been used successfully by at least one institution in this state. Other WAECT members who use it are asked to keep the committee informed of their experience.

The committee is working on a research project which would enable selected school districts, at a small additional fee, to purchase 16mm film, cleared for use on their TV transmission systems. The research purchase agreement would also permit the schools to make unlimited video tapes, copies of the films. WAECT members interested in participating in the project should contact Jerry Miller, AV Library, Central Washington State College, Ellensburg.

HEALTH-SCIENCE PROJECT

The National Library of Medicine (NLM) has awarded a contract to the Association of American Medical Colleges for the establishment of a collaborative program to develop a national network for the education of health-science professionals. AAMC will be responsible for bringing together faculty representatives from medical and dental educational institutions and from biomedical disciplinary societies to identify, develop, produce and utilize: 1) educational materials of wide acceptability in the biomedical health professional area; 2) educational materials of broad usefulness for educating the public; 3) systems to provide optimum evaluation of student acceptance and achievement, and assessment of the cost-effectiveness of new educational methodologies; 4) institutional resources for facilitating the development and use of new educational methodologies.

Implementation of these tasks will require the development of an Educational Resources Program in AAMC. Planned as a 5-year program, the initial phase will be 24 months in length and will be devoted to staff development and to inventorying and cataloging existing multimedia materials.

SLA POSITION STATEMENT

The Special Libraries Association, Pacific Northwest Chapter, has officially adopted the following position statement regarding Washington's Proposed Statewide System of Libraries:
"Special Libraries Association has maintained a supportive posture toward network development efforts, whether at the local, state or national level. Consistent with this position, Pacific Northwest Chapter of SLA is actively interested in the potential for increased networking capability offered by the proposed statewide library system.

"The unique resources of the state's special libraries would be an invaluable asset to the proposed system. However, the nature of many special libraries - particularly those in private industry which are often one- or two-person operations - raises equally unique problems relative to the mechanism and degree of participation. Included among our concerns are matters of staffing levels, restricted access or dedicated collections, cost of participation vs. benefit to the small or medium-sized library; further, the questions of informal vs. contract arrangements, reciprocal copying services, and the possibility of subsidized participation for smaller special libraries.

"While the broader issues of including the state's special information resources in the network are yet to be resolved, the special librarians of the state represent a human resource that can be utilized profitably during the planning and implementation stages of the system.

"Of necessity special librarians have developed informal techniques of 'networking' to deal with problems such as those noted above. This special expertise can be brought to the search for viable solutions and appropriate mechanisms for statewide participation in a network system. Therefore we strongly urge that special librarians from all types of special libraries be included at the several levels of system development planning." -Lynne Stack/SLA
